See attached.

I may have over thought this, but I incorporated the response into a We Care document because I wanted to provide Wren some background information on the assessment.

Gloria,

Can you put some bullets together for Wren?

Mark, when and how can we get them to Wren?

As you are aware, next week is the ADD meeting. Ports is on the agenda and will include a discussion on the MSTRS Ports Macro assessment, Federal coordination and strengthening Port Community relations. In preparation for that discussion I am sharing with you some questions that may be raised during that segment. If you could consider the questions and provide your Directors with any helpful talking points that would initiate a productive discussion amongst the Regions and OTAQ.

Thanks,

Ports Macro Assessment will outline future port-related emissions for criteria, air toxics, and climate pollutants and assess the effectiveness of technological and operational emission reduction strategies across ports with different emissions profiles

With the estimated completion of the assessment by August 2015 - How can the Agency best communicate and use the results of the macro assessment?

MSTRS Federal Coordination efforts is focused on federal funding, but the biggest need for coordination seems to be at the regional level where projects are happening.

What is the best way to internally coordinate across media?

Use regional ports call?

Resurrect intra-agency team?

Other?

Where is the greatest need for Federal Coordination at the regional level, with respect to addressing air emissions from port sources?

What are your ideas for using results of the Macro Assessment to increase Federal partner consideration of the air quality impacts of their actions?

Strengthening Port Community Relations - Primers being developed that include interactive materials (“curriculum”) and a community action roadmap (implementation plan) to provide communities with strategies for effectively participating in port decision-making and provide ports with best practices for port community outreach.

Do any Regions have an area that could be used as a potential pilot project - looking for partners to test out the curriculum?
